Greater Interest in Water Sports on Maine Coast

Yacht Races Planned for Casco Bay With Building of Many New Craft.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
PORTLAND, Me., June 3. LL the Casco Bay (Maine) resorts opened their doors for summer business this week, and the regular summer residents are daily arriving for their annual sojourn among the islands of Casco Bay. The romantic, legendary and traditional history of the Bay lends a charm to the various islands.

The Cape and Falmouth Foreside hores along the mainland, with the oup of Gasco Bay islands, Prouts reation centers early h He time W sitors and are al-tine W to give evidence of the Fabyan as to come. An unusual number of visitors is forecast by ad-all been greatly enlarged. The Brewers have constructed a large lake near the planes of the Portland Yacht Club include a regular cruise in conjunction with the Boston Yacht Club and a series of races between the larger craft.

The Massachusetts yachting fleet arrives in the Portland port on July 10. A banquet will be tendered the visitors at the Portland Yacht Club house and the following day races will be held which will be open to the Portland and Boston Yacht Clubs and to all other craft in Casco Bay at the time. On July 12 the yachts will, start on their cruise. This year it is expected the boats will go to Rockland, although in former years the cruise ended in Brothing years. The Portland Yacht Club is the second oldest yachting organization in the United States. The club was organized in 1869. There is every promise that yachting will have a boom this summer and plans have already been laid for several open races for large boats. Many craft from other nearby watering places will enter these races. Many new yachts have been added to the club list this season and a junior membership has been organized.

A dozen new boats are now being finished by the Davidson Brothers at South Portland for members and nearly a score of catboats have been added to the fulnior membership class. These are all owned by summer residents and will add materially to the interest in races in Casco Bay this season.

3.—Lake George village will be known this season as "the summer capital of the Empire State," for Gov. Miller has selected the estate in the Bolton road of the late Edward M. Shepard of Brooklyn as the place at which he and his family will spend their vacations. Owing to the fact that this is the sum mer before the campaign for the election of a Governor of the State for another years, it is expected that there will be a good deal of social life at the Governor's summer home,
